UN REFUGEE FIGURES SHOW ASYLUM FEARS UNFOUNDED

UN figures released today confirm that Australia's share of asylum applications remains at just 1% of the global total.

UNHCR Global Trends 2010, released today to mark World Refugee Day, reveals that the number of people displaced by persecution and conflict rose by 400,000 last year to 43.7 million. Of these 15.4 million are refugees, 840,000 are asylum seekers and 27.5 million are displaced within their own countries.

Of the 10.55 million refugees under UNHCR's mandate, 75% come from just 10 countries of origin – Afghanistan, Iraq, Somalia, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Burma, Colombia, Sudan, Vietnam, Eritrea and China. Just 10 countries host 62% of these refugees. They include Pakistan, Iran, Syria, Germany, Jordan, Kenya and Chad.

By contrast, Australia hosts 21,805 refugees according to UNHCR, just 0.21% of the global total. In 2010, Australia received 1.04% of the world's asylum applications and, as at December 2010, hosted 0.45% of the world's asylum seekers. Australia's contribution to refugee resettlement is more substantial, being ranked third in the world with 8,516 refugees welcomed last year.

Refugee Council of Australia CEO Paul Power said the statistics brought much-needed context and realism to the shrill and unbalanced national debate about asylum seekers.

"Few people outside Australia can understand why there is so much political division in Australia about asylum policy, given that Australia's share of global need is so small," Mr Power said. "These figures reveal that Australians should ignore politicians and others who try to whip up fear about the nation being 'swamped' by asylum seekers. While some Australians make so much fuss about a comparatively small national challenge, much poorer countries across in the Middle East and Africa and the Middle East put our country to shame by showing much greater generosity towards people attempting to escape persecution and torture."
