

Yamane Fayed is an experienced trilingual creative producer in the community and cultural development sector. She has worked since 2005 as a freelance facilitator of digital and traditional storytelling across Western Sydney. She also became a food tour guide with Taste Food Tour running cultural food tours throughout Sydney connecting food and people to promote cross cultural understanding. Currently, Yamane works for I.C.E. as the producer of the Multicultural Women's Hub program up skilling and supporting women in setting up their own creative enterprise. She is passionate about working and engaging with diverse communities in Western Sydney through the medium of arts and creativity as tools for social change.